

Self-Regulation and Well-Being

Children learn about emotions and feelings and how to adapt to new situations. The goal is for children to develop an understanding of how they best focus and learn, to respect themselves and others and to promote well-being in themselves and in others. This gives them a strong foundation for life.